I have decided to re-title the newsletter, “You, Me, and LD”, and begin a new newsletter titled “Building a Teacher’s Toolbox”. This new format will begin on Friday, May 30th, 2009.

In hindsight, I do not want the newsletter to be thought of as exclusive to issues and topics pertaining to learning disabilities. I want to welcome all teachers from all programs to share in this resource, as well as offering the opportunity to give their input into the articles as well. The only change that you will see is in the title. The format will be the same, the content ideas will be the same, and once again, I hope that the sharing of ideas will continue.

This decision was made because the email base continues to grow as “word of mouth” seems to be passing it along. I don’t want the title to be restrictive; thus, the name change.

The eight editions that have been published so far have included:

Issue 1-Premier issue and welcome, as well as lesson plans for “The Boy in the Striped Pajamas”

Issue 2-ESOL and Learning Disabilities

Issue 3-Test taking anxiety and test taking strategies

Issue 4-Technology in the classroom

Issue 5-Asperger’s syndrome

Issue 6-Traumatic brain injury and teaching strategies

Issue 7-National Holocaust Day, 10 year anniversary of Columbine school shooting, Earth Day

Issue 8-writing an essay, tips, strategies, and a variety of writing prompts

If you are new to “You, Me, and LD”, and would like to receive the back issues, please let me know and I will forward them to you. You can email me directly at robroy94@myfairpoint.net.

Again, the newly titled newsletter, “Building a Teacher’s Tool Box” will begin on May 30th. If you want to receive this newsletter in place of “You, Me, and LD”, you have nothing to do. If you want to unsubscribe and get off my email list, just let me know, and I will do that for you. If you are brand new to this newsletter, then email me directly and you will be ready to receive the premier edition of “Building a Teacher’s Tool Box” on May 30th!

I look forward to continuing this journey with you.
