Well, here is the much anticipated newest newsletter since the dreaded computer crash at my home!

I am going to make it brief since I have four newsletter ideas percolating in my head and one that is of time sensitive nature...the suspense!

In this newsletter, the topic is beginning reading. You will be able to find the information in the attachment. The reasoning for this newsletter is that I had been asked by Debbie Liskow at Dover Adult Learning Center to come and pay her a Mentor visit, and that at that visit, we would discuss beginning reading.

I must admit, that this was my first invitation to do a Mentor visit, and I loved it! Please, if my experience with Debbie is an indication of how wonderful making Mentor visits is, please invite my fellow mentors and I to come and meet with you.

Do you know who the mentors are?

If not, here is a listing of who they are and what they do.

- ✓ Susan Bubp: Concord Second Start Adult Learner Services Coordinator
- ✓ Lynda Galard-LeBlanc: Dover Adult Learning Center Diploma Teacher
- ✓ Elise Hood: Manchester GED Instructor
- ✓ Deborah Kanner: Exeter Adult Education Diploma Teacher
- ✓ Robin Letendre: Learning Disabilities Consultant
- ✓ Pat Nelson: Staff Development coordinator

- ✓ Christine Powers: Manchester ESOL Instructor and Supervisor
- ✓ Denise Reddington: Dover Adult Learning Center ABE and GED Instructor
- ✓ Debbie Tasker: Consultant and GED Administrator

Two newly hired Mentors are Kimberly Cartier and Jen DeCoste who work on college transitions.

We would love to be invited to visit with you, share information with you, or have you come to our teaching site. It is a wonderful opportunity in which we set up a mutual convenient meeting time and place and just share ideas.

As always, I invite you to visit the Adult Ed website at: www.nhadulted.org and that is where you can find information about the Mentors. If you click into the “educators” tab, you will find on the left hand side a toolbar that directs you to each mentor, and their contact information.
